

ART & ANTIQUES

BY REBECCA WALLERSTEINER

Handmade in Chelsea

The Contemporary Crafts & Design Fair opens its doors once again in Chelsea's elegant Town Hall and this year marks its 10th anniversary. Craft lovers can look forward to beautiful, unusual pieces on display – including ceramics, glass, textiles, furniture, handbags, jewellery – all made with individual love and care. Meet the makers of inventive products, for instance Daniel Latorre Cruz, who creates paper lighting from recycled materials, and Carole Waller, who will be showcasing her hand-painted silk garments and scarves. Visitors will also find heaps of inspiration for quirky, original presents that will delight your loved ones this Christmas. 11-13 November, Chelsea Old Town Hall, King's Road, SW3, handmadeinbritain.co.uk

Images courtesy of Jonathan Clark

Heads Up

Finishing on 1 November, it is your last chance to see the exhibition of heroic busts sculpted in the 1990s by Sir Eduardo Paolozzi at Jonathan Clark Fine Art. "The sitters he chose for these late masterpieces are heroes that point towards Paolozzi's inner threads," comments the gallery's eponymous founder. "Many from the world of science and philosophy – and an ocean away from the celebrity sitters chosen by Andy Warhol." Clearly there is a link to the heroic tradition of classical busts of personalities pursuing pedestals. As works of art, they have a vigorous presence that can be alarming, personal and extremely physical. Very like the artist himself.

Heads, until 1 November, 18 Park Walk, SW10, jca.co.uk